

from the Prince George Citizen, a newspaper in Prince George, British Columbia, Canada

http://www.princegeorgecitizen.com/index.php?option=com_content&task=view&id=123026&Itemid=593

Ageism on display
(Letters) Wednesday, 12 March 2008, 22:30 PST
-- Nancy Kerr Prince George

Ageism can be subtle. Not only a newspaper report but also an editorial made mention of the number of people in the community "between the ages of 18 and 64 who have education beyond the secondary level."

I know of several people over 64 in this city who have received such education but can only speak for myself. I have an AA in social studies, a BA in psychology, an MA in psychology, an M.Div and an ABD (all-but-dissertation) for a Ph.D. in clinical psychology.

If the assumption is that those over 64 don't contribute to the economy, ageism is again apparent.

I started a business when I was 65 which flourished for four years.

-- Nancy Kerr

Prince George